UBS RELEASES STATEMENT ON UBS ETRACS ETNs AND LAUNCHES SIX NEW PRODUCTS

New York, October 8, 2015 – UBS AG announced today that it does not intend to issue any new notes in 38 of its outstanding ETRACS ETNs, which are listed in Table I below and form part of a series of UBS AG debt securities designated as “Medium-Term Notes, Series A” (the “Series A ETRACS ETNs”). These Series A ETRACS ETNs will continue to trade on the NYSE Arca. UBS AG expects that its affiliate UBS Securities LLC may continue to sell these Series A ETRACS ETNs that UBS AG has previously issued or that UBS Securities LLC may acquire in the future. As described in the table below for each Series A ETRACS ETN, this includes outstanding Series A ETRACS ETNs previously issued by UBS AG that UBS Securities LLC may repurchase from the public from time to time as well as Series A ETRACS ETNs issued by UBS AG prior to the date of this announcement and not yet sold to the public. The maximum number of each Series A ETRACS ETN that could be outstanding at any time is set forth in the last column of Table I below.

This announcement does not affect the terms of the outstanding Series A ETRACS ETNs identified below, including the right of noteholders to require UBS AG to redeem their notes on the terms, and at the redemption price, set forth in the applicable prospectus supplement (or product supplement and pricing supplement) and the right of UBS AG to call the notes at the prices and under the circumstances set forth in the applicable prospectus supplement (or product supplement and pricing supplement).

UBS AG also announced today the launch of six new ETRACS ETNs, identified below, which form part of a series of UBS AG debt securities designated as “Medium-Term Notes, Series B” (the “Series B ETRACS ETNs”). The six new Series B ETRACS ETNs are each linked to an index underlying one of six Series A ETRACS ETNs subject to this announcement as identified in Table II below. In connection with the previously announced transfer by UBS AG to UBS Switzerland AG of specified assets, UBS Switzerland AG became a co-obligor of all outstanding debt securities designated as Series A, including the Series A ETRACS ETNs, issued by UBS AG prior to the transfer date. Any UBS ETRACS ETNs issued after the transfer date have been or will be designated as Series B, including the six new products launched today, and do not have the benefit of the co-obligation.

The table below indicates, for each Series A ETRACS ETN, (1) the aggregate number of securities that have been issued by UBS AG prior to the date of this announcement, (2) the aggregate number of outstanding securities currently held by the public and (3) the aggregate number of previously issued but unsold securities currently available for sale to the public by UBS Securities LLC.

As disclosed in more detail in the applicable prospectus supplement (or product supplement and pricing supplement) for each of these Series A ETRACS ETNs, the market value of the notes may be influenced by, among other things, supply and demand for the notes. It is possible that the discontinuance of further issuances of these notes by UBS AG, as described above, may influence the market value of the notes. The suspension of new issuances of these notes could affect the liquidity of the market for the notes, potentially leading to insufficient supply and causing the notes to trade at a premium above their closing or intraday indicative value. Any such premium may subsequently decrease at any time and for any reason without warning, resulting in financial loss to sellers who paid this premium when they acquired their notes. In addition, if investors elect to redeem their exchange-traded notes, any redemption will be at the redemption value set forth in the applicable prospectus supplement (or product supplement and pricing supplement) and will not include any premium above that value. Investors should always consult their financial advisors and compare the intraday indicative value of the notes with the notes' then-prevailing market price before purchasing or selling these Series A ETRACS ETNs, especially notes with premium characteristics.

The applicable prospectus supplement (or product supplement and pricing supplement) for each Series A ETRACS

ETN identified above can be accessed by clicking on the name of each ETRACS ETN identified in the table above as well as on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov.
